This settlement does nothing to solve the problem and nothing to punish the offender. It serves no purpose except for Microsoft. For them, it gets them out of this litigation free. With Windows XP, Microsoft now continues to destroy the industry, and to usurp additional industries, leaving only itself. Microsoft continues to see that it has nothing to fear from the U.S. Justice Department.

What kind of law even allows for a ?settlement1 anyway? Can I go out and kill someone and ?settle1 with the courts on the kind of punishment I want? The courts found that Microsoft broke the law. Punish them and disable this repeat offender which has no regard for law from doing it again.
